TRIAL

OF

COLONEL A. BURR.

MOTION FOR COMMITMENT.

EXAMINATION OF EVIDENCE.

TUESDAY, September 29.

(General Wilkinson's testimony continued.)

I think I did mention to them the propriety of going in the attire of private citizens to elude the vigilance of Burr's spies, many of whom were in New Orleans, and would give him notice of their departure from that place. It was also prudent to send them in that manner, that the jealousy of the Spaniards, through whose territories they had to pass might not be excited.

They were sent privately, for the success of the enterprise depended upon it.

Mr. Wickham. Did you give them written or oral instructions? A Both. Q Have you copies of the written instructions? A Not here. Q Will you furnish copies?

[Mr. Hay objected to the production of those orders. He said that they had a right to impeach the credibility of the witness, but not to compel him to disclose the orders given to those under his command.] Q Where those orders to seize col. Burr wherever they could find him? A They were sent on that service expressly. I think the orders were confined to Natchez; information having been received that col. Burr had taken up his quarters there. Q Were there any orders to seize him even in court? A I cannot say but presume there were not. Q Were any private soldiers sent on this service? A No. Q Were any soldiers sent to lieutenant Jones's gun boats? A Infantry were furnished to supply the place of marines in all the gun boats. Q Were any instructions sent by you that the men in lieutenant Jones's gun boats should act? A I gave lieutenant Jones no orders as he was not under my command. Q Was commodore Shaw considered under your authority? A He was rather considered as co-operating with me; but he had a discretion of his own.

Q Was there a recommendation to commodore Shaw to give directions to lieutenant Jones to take any measures to apprehend col. Burr? A I think the orders required him to do so. Q What orders were given for the disposal of col. Burr? A The orders were that he should be put on board a vessel, and sent by the way of New Orleans to the city of Washington. Q Were these orders written? A I believe they were. Q What orders had you from government, or did you do it on your own authority? [Gen. W. took time till tomorrow to consider the subject and examine his papers.] Q When you were at New Orleans were not letters addressed to other persons frequently brought to you from the post office; by whose orders were they delivered to you; were they opened and with what view?

Mr. Hay thought that they had no right to ask such a question. It might be important between the United States and General Wilkinson. But it does not appear to be proper to interrogate him as to his conduct any where, unless it has some bearing on the cause; nor can a witness be asked any question the answering of which might subject him to a prosecution. If we had introduced evidence on that point, they had a right to cross-examine him.

Mr. Wickham. We may suppose without impeaching the credit of gen. W. that he will give us as favorable an account of his conduct as a man in his situation may be disposed to do. Gen. W. has detailed a number of facts to account for the conduct of col. Burr; he has taken very strong ground. We wish to shew that the general has the strongest possible motive to criminate col. Burr. We were permitted to ask him about sending officers in disguise to seize col. Burr; we wish now to prove some other seizures. This evidence has a direct reference to the case of col. Burr. If gen. Wilkinson took all these measures, it will surely have a tendency to weaken his testimony.

Mr. Martin. We mean to shew that general Wilkinson is identified with the government, and the government had declared that they would justify him. We have a witness to prove the express declarations of the secretary at war, that general Wilkinson stood low with the government all his energetic measures at New Orleans had raised him in the estimation of the president. They can only justify his acts by shewing an impropriety in the conduct of col. Burr. The more we shew that the constitution has been trampled on and the rights of the citizens invaded, the more they will endeavor to shew the impropriety of the conduct of col. Burr in order to justify it.

Mr. Hay. Mr. Martin has avowed the motives of col. Burr's counsel to be to identify general Wilkinson with the government. Admitting that general Dearborne had made the declarations ascribed to him—admitting that the president had formed that opinion of general Wilkinson, how can his answer to the question propounded have any bearing on this case? Suppose general Wilkinson should say, that in consequence of the expected arrival of col. Burr, the agitated state of the country and a knowledge that he was surrounded by the partisans and accomplices of Burr in New Orleans, he had taken letters from the post office (and he would only have done what he ought) how could it effect the present case? It is manifest that the answer of general Wilkinson must leave the question between the United States and col. Burr exactly where it was before.

Mr. Wickham. When these questions were asked Mr. Murray before, they were thought proper and he was even cross examined by the counsel for the prosecution. The gentlemen had ascribed to colonel Burr improper acts. Now to impeach general Wilkinson's credibility, we shew that he has been guilty of violent acts—Is he not interested to shew the conduct of col. Burr to be improper, in order to justify his own.

Mr. Baker. Suppose says Mr. Hay, this declaration of general Dearborne to be true; suppose that general Wilkinson did not deserve to stand high in the confidence of the government, would it not have any bearing on the cause, would it not leave the question between the United States and col. Burr exactly where it was before. At one time the counsel on the other side seem willing to give the general up; now they stand forward as the champions of the worthy general. Suppose it be proved that he has thrust his hand, or directed others to do it, into the post office and pilaged letters. Suppose it be proved that he has made erasures in letters and then sworn that translations of them were true copies, which were as much like the originals as any other thing, and that he has sworn to this, that and the other, whether true or false, will not all these things affect his credibility?

Mr. Wickham said it was a question entirely for the consideration of general Wilkinson himself. If he thought proper to answer the question it was not the business of the prosecution to interfere.

The Chief Justice after making some remarks on the nature of the question observed, that general W. was not bound to answer any questions which might criminate himself. Some observations were made as to the extent of the opinion of the court. Mr. Wirt supposed from the decision of the court in the case of Wylie, that general Wilkinson could not be bound to answer the question.

Mr. Wickham thought directly the reverse.

LONDON, Aug. 28.

We stated above a month ago that a report was prevalent upon the continent, that it was the intention of Bonaparte to take upon himself the title of Emperor of the West, and that the emperor Alexander was to assume the title of Emperor of the East or of the North. There is a passage in the speech of Bonaparte to the legislative body, which tends very strongly to corroborate the report, for in speaking of the peace which he granted to the king of Prussia, he says, "The house of Brandenburg is indebted for still being permitted to reign to the sincere friendship with which the powerful emperor of the north has inspired me."

Bonaparte having bestowed this title upon the emperor of Russia, will we have no doubt soon assume the title of Emperor of the West. The tribunate is about to be abolished, for what cause we are not informed.

Within these few days orders have been issued for twelve sail of the line, with frigates, to be prepared for the North Seas, during the winter months.

NATIONAL RANK.

Upwards of three hundred years ago, (in 1502) the important office called master of the ceremonies, who officiated for Julius II. ranked the powers of Europe in the following order.

- 1 The emperor of Germany,
- 2 King of the Romans,
- 3 France,
- 4 Spain,
- 5 Arragon,
- 6 Portugal,
- 7 England,
- 8 Sicily,
- 9 Scotland,

A Dublin paper states that the Ross and Eniscorthy mines have for three years past afforded employment to upwards of ten thousand people; and adds that a new mine has lately been discovered on the estate of the earl of Derry, near the town of Tipperary.

It is said that the chief food of Bonaparte's immense hosts during the late campaign was biscuit. It is obvious that at last they got into good bread.

BRITISH NAVY.

The following is the amount of the British naval force up to this day. At sea 96 ships of the line, 10 from 50 to 44 guns, 134 frigates, 153 sloops, &c. and 199 gun brigs and other vessels. Total 592. In port and fitting, guard-ships, &c. 74 ships of the line, 8 from 50 to 44, 38 frigates, 42 sloops &c. and forty three gun brigs and other vessels. Total 178. Building, 34 ships of the line, 25 frigates, 25 sloops, &c. and four gun brigs and other vessels. Total 88. In ordinary, forty two ships of the line, twelve frigates from 50 to 44, fifty four frigates, forty four sloops, &c. and seventeen gun brigs and other vessels. Total two hundred and sixty eight. Grand Total 1,026.

Yesterday evening the Russian frigate Syzhanay arrived in the Downs direct from St. Petersburg. The circumstance was immediately communicated to the admiralty by the Telegraph, and some importance was at first attached to the arrival of this vessel. It appears however that she was bound to Lisbon with the prince and princess Galitzin on board. The latter was going to Lisbon for the recovery of her health, but died upon her passage.

The misunderstanding which appears to have taken place between the English and the Chinese at Canton, is a subject of great exultation to the editors of the American newspapers, who confidently predict the exclusion of British subjects from the Chinese market, and who expect, with equal confidence, that the whole of that trade will fall into the hands of the Americans. We have little doubt that the circumstances of this dispute are very much exaggerated in the American accounts, and it is in all probability long since amicably adjusted. The Americans would no doubt be glad to see the English excluded from the Chinese market, as they would then not only acquire a great part of our trade, but would also get rid of the tide which the Chinese, upon comparing their conduct with that of the English merchants, have given them, viz—"Second-class Englishmen;" or, "Englishmen of the second sort."

Major-general Grant has announced the discovery of the longitude by a mathematical instrument, which shews the rate of a ship sailing continually with the greatest accuracy. This instrument is connected with others, which point out the rate of the ship, her latitude and longitude, in direct or oblique sailing.

The MMS. belonging to the Stewart family, about which so much has been said, and to inspect which Mr. Fox was understood to visit Paris a few years ago for historical purposes, are according to report, now in this country. An envelope, stating that the contents were those papers, was, we are informed, exhibited at the secretary of state's office some time ago, and is not unlikely to be produced before Lord Ellenborough.

Notice of the French having laid an embargo on all the Portuguese and Danish vessels in their ports, is struck up at Lloyd's.

It is stated that, agreeable to the call of our proclamation, persons of consideration and magistrates, in Denmark, have agreed to act under the direction of our commanders, with a view to prevent disorder, and to secure the peaceable supply of articles which must have been accessible by force.

According to private letters received from Denmark, it is confidently stated to be the general understanding, that Bonaparte made a most tempting proposition to the regent prince, in case he consented to co-operate in his views. This proposition is said to be the reunion of the kingdom of Sweden with that of Denmark & Norway; and this union to be accomplished by French troops, provided the prince regent would agree to close the Sound against our trade, and place the Danish fleet at the disposition of France. These such a proposition may have been made, is extremely probable; but no assertion is hazarded, nor is any reason stated, to induce a belief that the prince regent had manifested a disposition to accede to it.

The Danish ships of war are, we are assured by professional men, quite incapable of being converted to any warlike purpose for this country. Unless as transports, they are of little value to us. As such, they are so constructed as to afford accommodation for a much greater number of troops than any vessels of the same tonnage in this country. But, as men of war, they are not fit to be placed in line with our vessels of that class, and of course are not, in that point of view, to be reckoned as any acquisition to us. They might, however, in the hands of the enemy, be rendered extremely injurious to us in the Baltic, for which they are peculiarly built and suited.

An order has been sent to the squadron in the West Indies, for the immediate capture of Santa Cruz, St. Thomas, and other Danish colonies.

The surrender of Stralsund was hastened by the pressing importunities of the inhabitants, who almost hourly entreated his Swedish majesty to surrender the place, in order to save it from the dreadful effects of a continued siege. The Swedes marched out on the 23d, and the city and fortress were on the same day occupied by the French. The former were conveyed to Rugen.

September 5.

If in the end we are successful in our expedition against the Danes, we do not think it practicable to maintain Zealand during the winter, even if we leave a garrison of 20,000 men in Copenhagen. Our fleet during the stormy months, will be of but little assistance to us in such a dangerous sea as the Baltic; and the passage of the Belts must be quit entirely—it being too dangerous for our ships of war to enter. In this situation what can 20,000 English do against the force the Danes will send from Holstein? If the equinox sets in early in the year, and before we have accomplished the capture of Copenhagen, we shall consider our whole expedition as in jeopardy.

(Statesman.)

The circumstance of the prince royal of Denmark having committed the defence of Copenhagen to general Peymann and retired to Holstein, has led many to imagine he has given up all hopes of successfully defending the place against the attacks of the English. This may be found to be the case; it is very probable that his journey to Holstein is for the purpose of devising means to succor the besieged; for in stormy weather our vessels of war cannot completely guard the passage of the Belts; and it would be practicable, at least, to land officers and engineers, which we understand constitute the principal wants of the Danes. If landed, though not able to enter Copenhagen, they might organize the militia of the island, and with them make a powerful diversion.

(Ibid.)

It affords us much satisfaction to hear that the American government has not been so far influenced by the senseless clamor excited in that country, as to adopt the passions and violence of the mobs on the banks of the Chesapeake. Letters of the 31 ult. were received yesterday from Virginia, which mention, that by an order of the executive, the two officers and three seamen belonging to the Melampus frigate who were detained, had been released, and a section board one of the British squadron. The letters from Copenhagen were finished, and the 23d, and the 24th, and the 25th, and the 26th, and the 27th, and the 28th, and the 29th, and the 30th, and the 31st, and the 1st, and the 2nd, and GREAT BARGAINS.

INTENDING to remove to the state of Tennessee as soon as possible, I wish to dispose of the following valuable and increasing property upon low terms, which property I inherited from my ancestors, who have had a legal title to the same for upwards of one hundred years.

One tract well known by the name of Annapolis, being on the Potomac river between Alexandria and George Town, and nearly opposite the city of Washington, beautifully situated, containing about four hundred acres, now leased to the Mr. Wises for three hundred and sixty dollars per annum with other stipulations contained in the said lease.

One other tract contiguous to the first, leased to William Fraser for forty dollars per annum, containing about six acres.

One other tract containing ten acres of bottom land, adjoining the Four-Mile Mill tract.

One other tract contiguous to the Abingdon estate, and within two and a half miles of George-Town, containing 725 acres. The greatest part of this land is heavily covered with red and white Oak.

A. L. S. O.

Three thousand acres on the Scioto River, in the state of Ohio.

This tract descended to me from my uncle George D. Alexander, being one moiety of the land he was entitled to for his military services during the revolutionary war. All the title papers with the wills under which I am entitled to the above property, are in the hands of BALDWIN DANE, Esq. to whom application will please to be made for terms &c. he being legally authorised to contract and dispose of all the above valuable property, for which good and satisfactory titles will be given.

25 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY, some time in the months of November or Dec. last, a negro man by the name of SAM, who was hired in the town of Alexandria to a Mr. Robert Smith. He was about 30 years of age, about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, very straight, of rather a yellowish or tawny complexion, stutters a little, has a soft voice and generally seems humble and timid when spoken to. He had a wife at col. Jommerson's in the county of Caroline, and may perhaps be lurking in that neighborhood, but I think it more probable he may have gone to the state of Maryland. If taken in the state of Virginia and brought to me I will give the above reward; if in the state of Maryland and brought to me I will give 30 dollars reward.
